

WORMAN'S MILL CIVIC ASSOCIATION INSIDE CAMP DAVID

Worman's Mill Civic Association was pleased to have Rear Admiral Michael Giorgione, a former Commander of Camp David for President Bill Clinton, and President George W. Bush, discuss his experiences while he was at Camp David. He captures life at the exclusive retreat and offers a glimpse into the lives of presidents and their families when they are seeking a respite from the spotlight.

Camp David is American diplomacy's secret weapon. Camp David has played a vital role in American history over the last 75 plus years, inviting Presidents and international leaders alike to converge, converse, and, perhaps most importantly, relax.

A peaceful mountaintop setting, crucially removed from the constant scrutiny of the press, Camp David has served as both a site of critical diplomacy and unparalleled tranquility. It is where President and Mrs. Reagan rode horses, where President Ford could take a moment to jump on a trampoline with his daughter, where President Nixon rode shotgun with Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev, where President Roosevelt met with Winston Churchill, where President Eisenhower met with President Kennedy, where President Bush worshipped in the aftermath of 9/11.
